PARKING INSIDER

Chief Executive's Message

Parking is ALIVE and kicking some significant goals! I strongly recommend that those who are advocating the death of parking, should visit OUTLOOK in 2017 as PACE at Perth only further reinforced how alert, adaptable and innovative the parking industry is when it comes to technology and driver experience. We embrace the discussions regarding driverless vehicles and recognise that as an industry we need to put this topic on our radar so that we are well positioned and prepared for any change however, this is not going to be the total demise of our industry, only present further opportunities. For those of you who recall the introduction of computers, may also remember that we were all going to be working a 20 hour week as computers would between our work and play. If we make it easier then we use it more and this may well apply to driverless vehicles. The fact that it may be easy to get into a vehicle whilst doing emails may well mean that we get onto the roads more often as there is no burden associated to driving. Lets get rid of the congestion taxes from our parking spaces and commit them to the road networks of a driverless car future via a user pays system as the congestion on our roads is only getting worse and its not attributed to parking.

Congratulations to each of the Parking Industry Awards nominees, finalists and winners. The event was attended by a record crowd and the PACE event also was claimed as our "best ever", which was only made possible by our sponsors, exhibitors and delegates. Please put 18/19 September 2017 in your diary for our second OUTLOOK conference followed by the Parking Industry Awards to be held at the STAR in Sydney.
